INDICATOR COMPONENTS

AVERAGE SCORE
6

The AVERAGE SCORE combines six widely used investment decision tools – Earnings, Fundamental, Relative Valuation, Risk, Price Momentum and Insider Trading. Each component is a decile rank (1–10, 10 most favourable) of the stock within its S&P 500 sector; the Average Score is their simple mean. Factors can behave differently across industries and market-cap groups, so use the score alongside other research.

OPTIMIZED SCORE

OPTIMIZED
6.5

An alternative to equal weighting: a fixed-weight blend that leans on Earnings, Fundamental and Price Momentum (20% each), Relative Valuation and Risk (15% each) and Insider Trading (10%). LSEG's Optimized Score uses back-tested weights from Verus Analytics that are not public, so this score is our approximation.

WHY THIS NUMBER LOOKS UNUSUAL

- Reported quarterly EPS includes one-off items from the revaluation or sale of investments (e.g. equity stakes) (mostly in the quarter ending Jun 2026), so it is not comparable with the analysts' consensus, which excludes such items.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Alphabet Inc. has an Earnings rating of 8; the Communication Services sector average is 6.4 and the S&P 500 average is 7.1.
- Over the last four comparable quarters the company beat consensus by more than 2% 4 times and missed 0 times (average surprise 32.7%).
- In the last 120 days brokers issued 0 upgrade(s) and 0 downgrade(s).

ANALYST RECOMMENDATIONS

EARNINGS SURPRISES

A surprise is the difference between reported EPS and the consensus estimate. Research shows a reported surprise is often followed by more surprises in the same direction.

Surprise Summary (last 12 quarters)
Positive quarters (>2%)	10
Negative quarters	0
In-line quarters	1

Announce Date	Actual EPS	Mean EPS	Surprise	Type
2026-07-22	9.11	2.90	214.1%	Not comparable
2026-04-29	5.11	2.67	91.4%	Positive
2026-02-04	2.82	2.64	6.8%	Positive
2025-10-29	2.87	2.26	27.0%	Positive
2025-07-23	2.31	2.19	5.5%	Positive
2025-04-24	2.81	2.01	39.8%	Positive

"Not comparable" = surprise above ±100%: the reported EPS includes one-off items the consensus excludes; those quarters are left out of the counts and the score.

ANNUAL REVENUE

Rising sales together with rising EPS tend to support a buy recommendation; flat sales with rising EPS may come from cost cuts rather than growth.

PRICE TO SALES

Weekly close divided by trailing-12-month revenue per share.

TRAILING PE

Weekly close divided by the sum of the four most recently reported quarters of diluted EPS.

FORWARD PE

Current forward P/E: 22.9 · S&P 500 median 16.4 · industry median 14.9.

A forward P/E history needs the consensus EPS as it stood on each past date. Yahoo Finance only publishes today's consensus. Select LSEG Workspace or WRDS (I/B/E/S) as the analyst source to draw this chart.

FORWARD PEG

Current forward PEG: 1.22 (forward P/E divided by the long-term EPS growth forecast).

Like the forward P/E, a PEG history needs point-in-time consensus growth forecasts (LSEG I/B/E/S or WRDS).

WHY THIS NUMBER LOOKS UNUSUAL

- The trailing P/E of 17.5 uses reported EPS, which is boosted by the revaluation or sale of investments (e.g. equity stakes); on normalized earnings it would be about 34.6.

Average Score

Combines six components – Earnings, Fundamental, Relative Valuation, Risk, Price Momentum and Insider Trading – each a decile rank (1–10, 10 most favourable) of the stock within its S&P 500 sector cohort (the whole index when the sector has fewer than 30 rated stocks). The Average Score is the simple mean of the available components (at least four). Scores of 8–10 are positive, 4–7 neutral and 1–3 negative.

Score history and averages

Risk and Price Momentum are re-ranked every week against the sector using only prices up to that date. Earnings and Insider Trading are rebuilt as of each date from dated events (EPS surprises, broker up/downgrades, open-market insider trades) collected for every S&P 500 stock. Fundamental and Relative Valuation are held at their current values. Trend tables and charts show a 4-week moving average. Score Averages cover the peer group, the GICS sector, the 100 largest companies and the whole S&P 500.

Component weights

Fundamental pillars	25% each (renormalised if a pillar is missing; dividend pillar dropped for non-payers)
Relative Valuation	Price/Sales, trailing P/E, forward P/E: 33.3% each
Risk	Magnitude of returns, volatility, beta, correlation: 25% each
Price Momentum	Relative strength 50%, seasonality 50% (this build scores relative strength only)
Earnings	Surprises, estimate revisions, recommendation changes: equal weight
Insider Trading	Short-term 70%, long-term 30%

Data cut-off

Report date 2026-10-15; prices to the previous close; financial statements count as known 60 days after the period end. Analyst estimates, price targets and holder lists from Yahoo Finance are its latest snapshot (LSEG Workspace and WRDS sources are point-in-time).

Differences usually come from restatements (Yahoo restates past periods, e.g. for discontinued operations; SEC figures are as originally filed), from different TTM windows, or from different definitions (e.g. ROE on average vs. ending equity).

Approximations

- Scores re-implement the published LSEG Stock Reports Plus methodology on an S&P 500 universe; they are not LSEG's proprietary values (LSEG ranks a global universe with I/B/E/S data).
- Earnings factor scores use fixed bins; the Optimized Score uses fixed weights (not the Verus Analytics blend).
- Peers are chosen by our similarity blend, not LSEG's TRBC-based peer method; sector averages use GICS, not TRBC.

Peer selection

Every S&P 500 company is scored on six signals, each converted to a percentile among all candidates and blended with the weights below (a signal that is missing for a company, e.g. no 10-K segment data for a non-US filer, is dropped and the other weights rescaled). Business description and revenue mix use TF-IDF text similarity; the revenue mix weights each 10-K business line by its share of revenue. Return co-movement is the correlation of two years of weekly returns after removing the average market move. Weights were checked against LSEG's published peer lists for HON and AMZN, which is too small a sample to call them calibrated.
